

BIG TIME AT THE QUINCY PICNIC

Immense Crowd Attends Annual Event and Although Sweltering
Under a Torrid Sun, Have Much Fun and Meriment.

NO TROUBLE MARS DAY

The Annual Quincy Picnic, which was held Thursday, was the largest attended affair of its kind ever held in that town. A large number of Greencastle and Putnam county people attended and all report that the picnic was a pleasant event. The excessive heat caused much discomfort and some suffering but everybody seemed happy just the same.
Dan Pfiffer, a former Greencastle character, is said to have been the biggest attraction on the picnic grounds. Dan sold toy balloons and whips.

The picnic was devoid of any rowdiness and the crowd all seemed out for a sociable and happy time. There were two or three arrests, but these were for minor offenses. Two men were arrested charged with violating the pure food laws. The men had been selling lemonade and other soft drinks with out proper coverings over their stands. The Greencastle people who have attended the Quincy picnic annually for many years, say that Thursday's program was the best ever given at the Owen county attraction. Most of the people from here who attended went on the Monday, but a large number of persons from the south part of the county drove over. Several automobile parties also went from here.

FLAGMAN IDENTITIES ALLEGED MAIL THIEF

After the midnight train known as the Chicago express on the Monday pulled into Bloomington station
Wednesday night, Flagman J. J.
O'Herrin, who was an eyewitness to the rifling of a mail pouch at the south end of the station Tuesday night as the train passed through here, identified Claude Lindsey as the man who he saw ripping open

the sack with a knife.

In the custody of chief of police
Hensley and Sheriff Browning, Amos Wiggins and Lindsey were handcuffed together and taken down to the station Wednesday night to await the arrival of a train upon which O'Herrin was to pass through.
As the train whistled for the local station the officers took the two men to the exact spot near the Hughes coal yard where the sack was robbed and as the train stopped O'Herrin was standing on the rear coach as he was on Tuesday night. In the party were United States Postoffice
Inspector W. C. Ela, of Cincinnati, Postmaster Bradburn and Deputy Allen.

After the train had stopped Wiggins was lead up to where O'Herrin could look at him. The Flagman held his lantern up and looked at Wiggins and replied that he was not the man. When Lindsey was lead forth O'Herrin quickly exclaimed,
"that is the man." Inspector Ela
then turned and said: "Are you absolutely sure of it?" and O'Herrin replied, "Yes I know he is the man
I saw cutting the sack."

Lindsey's only expression was "It's all off." Inspector Ela then ordered that Lindsey be returned to jail and a written statement was secured
from O'Herrin.

Lindsey will be taken late this evening or tomorrow morning to Indianapolis in charge of a U. S.
marshal where he will be held to the United States Grand Jury in November. If he is found guilty of robbing the mail he will have to serve from one to five years in the Federal prison at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas.—Bloomington World.

The will of the late Malissa Lockridge, of Roachdale, was filed for probate today. Mrs. Lockridge, after deceding that all of her debts be paid leaves the remainder of her property to her sons and daughters.
The two older sons, having been given their share in the estate previous to the death of Mrs. Lockridge, will not receive any share of the property owned by her at the time of her death.

BODY IS TAKEN TO HOME IN ST. LOUIS

Victim of Automobile Accident,
East of Greencastle Thursday,
Left Greencastle at Noon Today—
In Charge of a Friend.

WIFE GREATLY SHOCKED

The body of H. O. Wyant, killed in the traction car accident just east of Greencastle Thursday, was taken to St. Louis at 12:57 o'clock over the Vandalia. Burial will be in the St. Louis cemetery. The deceased parents, widow and stepdaughter live in that city.

Although Mrs. Wyant telegraphed the coroner Thursday that she would come for the body, the great shock of the death of her husband caused a collapse and she was unable to come. Friday morning, John Van-Dale, a friend of the family, came from St. Louis and accompanied the body to that city.

Mr. Wyant was 44 years old and had been employed in the City Assessor's office in St. Louis City Hall until recently. About two weeks ago, he accompanied by Mrs. Wyant, drove to Pendleton in their car and at that time he decided that he would buy a garage business there and move from St. Louis. He and his wife returned to St. Louis in their car and he was on his way to Pendleton to take charge of the business when the fatal accident occurred.

Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Ida Banks, a sister of Mrs. Wyant, and John W. Doull and L. P. Briggs,
friends of both Mr. and Mrs. Wyant,
came to Greencastle from Pendleton to assist in the arrangements for sending the body to St. Louis. They remained over today and assisted
Mr. Van Dale in the preparations.

Mr. Van Dale states that the news of the death of Mr. Wyant came as a severe shock to his wife and that she was in a serious state of collapse when he left St. Louis.

FORMER DEPAUW GIRL MARRIES PURDUE MAN

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Aug. 10.— Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Williamson, northwest of Lafayette, occurred the wedding of Miss Mabel Williamson, and Mr.
Joseph O. Jackson. The wedding took place on the large front porch,
the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. H. Rayle of Darlington, Miss Iva Martin played the Lohengrin wedding march during the ceremony. The ring ceremony was used and was witnessed by about 75 relatives and friends. The bride was beautifully attired in a silk mar-quisette over silk and carried bride's roses. The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J.
Williamson of near Lafayette. She has been a teacher in the Tippecanoe county schools for several years and is well and favorably known by a large circle of friends.
She attended DePauw University at Greencastle for two years. The groom is a promising young man, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jackson.
Mr. Jackson has been in Montana
the past two years. He is a graduate of Purdue University. The young couple received a large number of useful and beautiful presents. They will reside near Dayton, where they will teach a two room school.

MANIS TRIAL SET FOR SEPTEMBER 1

Second Case Resulting from Recent Raids on Eagles Lodge Rooms to Come Up Next Month.

CHARGE MAY BE DISMISSED

Special Judge James T. Denny,
Friday morning, set September 1,
for the date of the trial of Jesse Manis, the drayman who is charged with the illegal sale of beer. The case will be up for hearing that day. However, one of the attorneys in the matter states that the date
was set with the understanding that a continuance will be asked
when the case comes up.

One of the attorneys for the state
said that there is a probability that the charge against Manis may be dropped and the case dismissed.
However, should the case not be dropped it probably will be late in the month of September before it is tried. Manis is the drayman who hailed the beer, confiscated in the Eagles' lodge rooms, from the stations to the hall, Michael Woolf,
who was acquitted of the charges
of selling beer illegally and the illegal possession of beer, is the custodian of the lodge rooms and had charge of the beer hauled by Manis
after its delivery to the hall.

DR. G. W. SEAMAN GIVES ADDRESS

Several Greencastle People Are on Thursday's Program at the Camp Meeting at Battle Ground.

NOTES OF THE GATHERINGS

BATTLE GROUND, Ind., Aug. 11.
Yesterday was a big day at Battle Ground camp meeting, for it was temperance day, and much enthusiasm was felt on this question by all who attended the services.

At 7:30 a. m., Rev. L. S. Smith, of Greencastle, led the morning prayer. These meetings are intensely inspiring and are growing in interest.

At 9:00 a. m. the Bible Study class was held. After a short song service, conducted by Rev. Harry Maxwell, of Greencastle, Rev. Briggs of Hammond, led the opening prayer.
Dr. George W. Switzer presided. Dr.
Wm. G. Seaman, dean of philosophy of DePauw University, lectured on "A Great Isaiah." He spoke on the character and the message of the great prophet Isaiah. This was a most cultured and intellectual address. Dr. Seaman has become very popular during his stay here and every message he brings to the Bible class is very profitable.

The temperance day began with the 10:30 a. m. service. The male quartet of the Crawfordsville district furnished some excellent music.
Dr. Leazenby, superintendent of the Crawfordsville district, led in the opening prayer. Rev. Appley then introduced Dr. N. Shumaker, of Indianapolis, the speaker of the hour.
He was heartily applauded many times during his discourse. His subject was "The Temperance Fight in Indiana." His views were optimistic but he declared it was necessary to fight and fight against the liquor traffic.

Battle Ground Personals.
Miss Orpha Smith of Greencastle
returned Thursday from Monroeville.
Miss Smith sang at the Williamson-Jackson wedding.

The stockholders will hold a business meeting this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the chapel.

Van Carpenter, of Brazil, and Maxwell Chamberlin are ably assisting the Rev. Harry Maxwell, of Greencastle, in the singing with their cornets.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs.
Ernest Vaughn, who has been ill,
is not improved. There is little hope for his recovery. Mr. and Mrs.
Vaughn live in Monroe township.

Moody-VanCleave.

On Monday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles VanCleave, of New Market, occurred the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mabel Van-Cleave, and Edward D. Moody, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Moody of Waveland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. L. Airhart, of Roachdale, a well known elder of the Primitive Baptist church and auditor-elect of Putnam county—Crawfordsville Journal.

Dan Donnohue and Marshal Johns had trouble in front of the Goodwine garage Thursday afternoon when the marshal attempted to arrest Donnohue on the charge of intoxication. Donnohue said that the marshal could not arrest him and proceeded to resist in a most strenuous manner. Dan was as good as his word for the marshal failed to make any progress in his attempt to take Dan to jail. Finally, William Glidewell, convinced Dan that he should go to jail as the officer desired. Dan said he would go with anyone else but the marshal, so Glide-
well volunteered to act as his escort. And with the marshal following in the rear, Dan and Glidewell marched to jail. This morning Donnohue was before the mayor and fined for intoxication.

COUNTRY CLUB HAS OUTING

Members of the Beechwood Pleasant Circle Entertain Their Families at Home of Mr. and Mrs. T.
B. Farmer, Just East of Town,
Thursday.

COUNTRY DINNER IS SERVED

The members of the Beechwood
Pleasant Circle, a literary club, composed of the women living just east of this city, most royally entertained their husbands and children at the annual outing of the club Thursday. The event was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. B.
Farmer, about one mile east of town. The affair was an all-day event. There was no program, but nevertheless the day was most pleasantly spent.

The outing began about 10 o'- clock and lasted until late in the evening. At noon a good-old-fashioned country dinner was served on tables in the yard. The dinner consisted of all things which go to make up a real country dinner. The tables were fairly loaded with the eatables. Several Greencastle people were among the guests.

FORGER ARRESTED IN PARK COUNTY

Frank Firestone, Age 23 Years, Passes Two Bad Checks in Rockville—Pleads Guilty to the Charge and is Bound Over to Court for Trial.

PASSED TWO HERE, ALSO

The man who passed the two forged checks, in Greencastle, one on the Model Clothing Store and one on Rickett, the Jeweler, has been arrested in Rockville, where he also passed two bad checks. He attempted to pass the third one,
also, but it proved his undoing, for he was arrested by the sheriff while in the store where he had attempted to pass the check.

The young man's name is Frank Firestone and he has lived in north Putnam and Parke county the greater part of his life. His parents are dead and he, for many years, has worked first at one farm and then at another in north Putnam county and Parke county.

Howard Stark, a wealthy Parke county farmer's name was forged to the checks. The first cashed was for $25. It was cashed by him at the National Bank at Rockville, on August 5. The next one was for $25 also, and it was cashed at the Johnson Clothing store in Rockville on August 10.

The third check, which was for $30.50, was taken to the Parke county bank last Wednesday, but the cashier turned it down. Firestone then loitered around town for a few hours and finally went to the Stevenson Shoe store with the same check, which he had changed to $13.50. Mr. Stevenson left Firestone in the store while he left the store, presumably to get change,
but really to call the sheriff. He returned shortly accompanied by the sheriff and Firestone was arrested.

Thursday he was taken before a squire and pleaded guilty to the forgeries. He was bound over for trial in the Circuit Court.

There is no doubt but that Firestone is the same man who forged
the checks on the local banks.

Tomorrow noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Smith, will occur the marriage of their niece,
Miss Margherita Burton and Samuel R. Rariden. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Robbins. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple will leave for a trip on the Lakes.

Danish Rhubarb

Cut the rhubarb in small pieces and wash it. Boil for ten minutes and put enough sugar in it to make it sweet. After it has been boiled for ten minutes take the juice from it in a separate pan and put a few drops of strawberry juice in it. Put one-fourth cupful of cornstarch and one-half cupful of sugar or more, if not sweet enough. Then boil for five minutes. When cool and ready to serve, put one teaspoon of sugar and as much milk as you wish. This will make a dainty dish.

Raspberry and Currant Punch

A pleasant drink is made of raspberries and currants; a pint of the former to a quart of the latter. Bruise the fruit in a preserving kettle with a potato masher and pour over it two quarts cold water. Put the kettle over a moderate fire, where it will heat gradually. After it begins to boil remove the kettle from the fire, pour the contents into a jelly bag and let it drain through the bag into a large bowl. When it is clear and cool sweeten it and serve in little glasses with a little chilled ice. It is a dainty and healthful beverage.

Cedar Closet

Take the largest closet you can spare; clean it thoroughly. Now take old fashioned wooden curtain poles and place the first one sixteen inches from the ceiling. Then place another forty inches from the floor. Cut poles so that they fit tight and nail small piece of wood under each end to keep pole firm. Now put medium sized screw hooks in lower pole. Leave upper pole free to hang coats, etc., on coat hangers. Now take cedar paper; two dozen sheets will do, at 60 cents per dozen, two packages of brass headed tacks; begin at top and line the whole closet, overlapping each sheet. Line the door and floor with the paper. Tack paper so it comes three inches over jam of door inside. Blankets and all heavy things can be piled on the floor, with plenty of room to hang heavy garments on top and smaller things on bottom, this is positively moth-proof.

Coffee Creams

For cups beat one egg, add half pint of milk, salt, and one tablespoonful of oil. Sift in one cupful of flour. Mix until smooth and cool for 1 hour. Heat the cups in hot fat, drain, dip in batter, and fry in hot fat until brown. Remove from fire, invert and drain. Fill with this mixture: Beat four egg yolks and four tablespoonfuls of sugar in a saucepan, add one cupful milk. Stir over fire until they thicken; add three tablespoonfuls of strong coffee, one heaping tablespoonful and a half of powdered gelatin dissolved in half a cupful of milk. Cool, fold in one cupful of whipped cream, stir until it begins to stiffen, and pour into the cups. Top with meringue.

Powder for Baby

About the best powder for baby's tender skin during the hot weather, especially when he chafes so easily, is prepared by scorching four parts corn starch and adding when cool one part powdered boric acid. It may be placed in an empty powder box on a thin white muslin bag. It is inexpensive and quickly made. Five cents worth of boric acid will last a long time. I used this on my baby when olive oil or talcum powder failed and found it an almost instant relief.

Cherry Jam

Stalk and stone six pounds of cherries and put them in a basin, bruising them slightly to let the juice run. Put into a preserving kettle one pint of red currant juice and one pound of sugar and stir the contents of the pan over the fire until melted, when it boils put in the cherries and their juice, and four and one-half pounds of sugar, letting it boil fast for thirty minutes, removing all scum; then lift the pan off the fire, let the contents cool a little, put in preserve jars and seal.

French Trifle

Soak a fresh baked cold jelly roll in one cupful of fruit juice; allow it to stand for one hour. Whip one cupful of cream and add to it one tablespoonful of sugar and one teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Just before serving decorate it with the cream in horizontal lines, using a forcing bag and star tube. Garnish it prettily with the stalk and leaves of angelica, and place here and there a few sugar roses.

Cake Cases

By an approved recipe make some sponge-cakes. Bake in small buttered cups or tins. When cold cut a piece from the center of each cake. Fill the cavity thus made with ripe strawberries. Put stripe of angelica across to form handles. Serve whipped and sweetened cream with the berry baskets thus made.

MARRIED LIFE, SECOND YEAR

DELIA O'DONOGHUE, — West Street, New York City.
Meet me Grand Central Station 2:40. Want to surprise Mr. Curtis. HELEN L. CURTIS.

Helen had sent this message from Buffalo. It would be delivered about ten, which would give Della time to get the apartment in order and meet her at 2:40.

For several reasons she had planned to surprise Warren. Instead of letting him meet her at the train and see her tired and travel-stained, she felt their meeting would mean so much more if he could come home to find her there, refreshed and rested and in one of the pretty summer gowns she had made during her convalescence.

She wanted his first glimpse of her to be an attractive one. She lived over and over the scene of his coming home and his joyous surprise in finding her and Winifred there.

As the train drew nearer New York, she began to count the hours until she would see him. She would send Della for flowers and some special delicacies for dinner. They would make of it a very beautiful and wonderful evening.

It had been a long and tiresome trip, and she leaned heavily back against the linen head rest which covered the red plush seats. Her face was reflected in the narrow mirror between the windows. How pale and wan she looked.

She was not to meet her, and that she would have a chance to rest and freshen up. If she let Della bathe and dress Winifred, perhaps she would have time to lie down a little while before he came.

She was still weak from her illness. And the effort of the trip had been harder than she had expected.

A man with a handful of brass checks at the end of their leather straps came through now, calling, "Baggage checked? Baggage checked? Trunk to check, ma'am?"

Helen shook her head. She had planned to take her trunk with her on the taxi cab.

Winifred was growing fretful and Helen was faint with suspense and fatigue. What could have happened? Had her telegram miscarried? At last she felt it would be useless to wait any longer. She motioned to a guard who was standing near.

"Someone was to have met me, but there's been some mistake. Can she realize that no one was allowed through the gates, and that Della was among that crowd awaiting just beyond."

But even when she had passed the gates she could not distinguish Della in all that mass of people.

"You can just put the bags down. Someone is here to meet me. You needn't wait."

The porter put down the bags, took his tip and hurried off, while Helen looked through the now rapidly dispersing crowd for Della. Almost every traveler was being greeted and carried off by some awaiting friend.

But where was Della? Helen's gaze was now growing most anxious.

Perhaps she was in the waiting room. But Della was not there! She sat down by the front entrance to wait. Ten—fifteen—twenty minutes passed, but though an endless stream of people hurried by, Della was not among them.

The passengers were now getting together their suit cases and hand bags and putting on their wraps. The whole car was in the confused stir that always heralds the end of a long journey. Already they were on the outskirts of the city.

Helen slipped on Winifred's little coat, tied on her bonnet and then got herself and the bags ready. Just this preparatory stirring around made her realize how weak she was and how her head ached.

They were now flashing through tunnel after tunnel as they sped into the city. At last they were in the station—the great vaulted station, with its maze of tracks and waiting trains.

Helen took Winifred and made her way through the cars, the porter following with her bags.

For a moment Helen expected to find Della on the platform when she stepped from the train. And then you get me a taxi cab?"

"Sure, ma'am. Right this way." He took her bags and led her to one of a line of waiting cabs.

"Oh, my trunk!" as he helped her in. "I forgot about my trunk—and I want to take it with me!"

"I can get it, ma'am, if you've got your check," volunteered the driver.

To Helen, waiting there in the taxi cab, worried and anxious, the moments seemed endless before the driver returned with her trunk. The guard helped him place it in front and they were soon whirling through the crowded streets.

At length they drew up before the entrance of Helen's apartment. The familiar face of the hallboy brought to her a sense of pleasure, of home-coming, as he came running out to help her in.

When the cabman had been paid and dismissed she sank on the seat in the elevator with a sigh of weary relief.

"Didn't Della get a telegram this morning?" as the cab shot upwards. "I wired her to meet me—and I can't imagine why she didn't."

"Della?" He stopped the car at her floor. Why, Mrs. Curtis, Della hasn't been here for a month."

Helen gasped her astonishment. "You mean there's a new maid?"

"Why, no, ma'am, there ain't no maid at all. Mr. Curtis hasn't been staying here. The apartment's been shut up. Didn't he know you was coming?"

Helen shook her head. She could not speak.

"If you'll give me your key, ma'am, sympathetically. I'll open your door."

"I haven't any key with me," suppressing a sob.

"Just wait—I'll get the janitor. He's got a pass key."

Helen leaned against the iron grating of the elevator shaft, while the boy sped down to the basement for the janitor.

What did it mean? Della gone for a month! The apartment closed! When the janitor opened the door she entered the darkened, close-smelling, dusty apartment and sank hopelessly on a couch.

The janitor drew up the blinds, raised the windows and let down the awnings.

"Shall I send up my wife to help you, ma'am? You look real tired."

Helen nodded.

And this was the result of all her dreams and plans for a happy surprise! This coming home alone to a closed, deserted apartment!

The Red Parasol

A HOT DAY in one of the poorer quarters on the outskirts of the city. One dusty street was utterly deserted of humankind. Window blinds were closed against the sun, and even the flies swung lazily in the scorching shafts of light.

Like a figure in one of the wonder-clocks of Germany, a little girl suddenly swung from the door of one of the houses facing directly on the baking sidewalk, with a new red parasol raised above her head—a sign of fair weather, forsooth.

Her white frock was not so clean as it might have been, and it would have been a hazard to declare that her stockings and shoes had once been pink. But the red parasol needed no duce to make it the center of the street, and the ruffled white frock no train to give the person wearing it proper grace and poise.

Up and down the deserted street the little girl with the red parasol strutted, unmindful of the heat and the closed blinds. All the wishes in the world seemed to have come true in that red parasol, and the little girl needed no crowd of spectators, no homage and no plaudits to raise her to dream-heights in the world of make-believe.

Only children, and especially little girls, know the true secrets of the world of make-believe—the most real life known to man. That is the reason they can play with dolls. So this little girl was enjoying to its fullest the best part of life.

From an unseen vantage point several persons noted her progress, and smiled. They smiled at the all-potential vanity that made her so happy in a silly way, and passed on, perhaps to brood again over their troubles or to think hard of the misdeeds of their neighbors.

There is another little girl in this big city, who, metaphorically, has been parading under the red parasol and has come to grief. The papers have been printing much about it, and many are inclined to condemn her, because she is a big little girl.

Two kinds of women help to make up the world, as I see it. Some of them are grown-up little girls, and the others are little girls grown up. The one I refer to is a true type of the latter class.

Now the red parasol of this little girl grown up was a casket of jewels. She loved the flash and sparkle of great white diamonds, the velvet dawn-like lustre of pearls, the blue depth of sapphires, and the warm, red appeal of rubies. She had many. They were given to her by men who liked her pretty ways. I am told that she used to hang these ropes of pearls about her throat, star her gowns with the sapphires and rubies, and encrust her hands with diamonds while she was alone in her apartments. Then she used to sit and dream dreams, just like the little girl with the red parasol, only not so active.

The passersby did not ask how the little girl with the red parasol got her bright-hued sunshade. It might have been surreptitiously borrowed from the little girl across the hall. They simply smiled and passed on.

Why not the same with the little girl grown up and her gorgeous gems, now making so much trouble for several prominent men? The men are men, and knew what they were doing. So, why not a smile for the little girl grown up when they bespangle themselves with priceless baubles, and then pass on? For there are many, many little girls grown up with red parasols, and there are many, many better things to do than to question them closely. And the most of them are good little girls grown up.

Torpedoes

Wrap salted almonds in white tissue paper twisting the ends to represent torpedoes.

CURIANT ICE CREAM—Pick over and stem two quarts of ripe red currants, mash, add one pound of sugar and let stand for two hours, then strain; if not very sweet add more sugar. Scald and cool one quart of rich cream. Pack the freezer, pour in the cream, turn slowly for a few minutes until very cold; add the sweetened currant juice and freeze as usual.

Their Pleasant Summer

"WHERE," asked the caller, in a conventionally polite tones and with lukewarm interest, "are you going for the Summer?"

The effect on her host was electrical. She sat bolt upright, dropped the teapot with a bang and echoed, "Going! We're not going—we're staying!"

"My goodness!" gasped the caller. "Excuse me for mentioning it if it's a tender subject!"

"It's not tender," said her hostess energetically. "It's worse—it's an impossible subject! We went away last summer and that's the reason."

"The Tunnills announced that they were going to Europe and said that if we'd occupy their big place across the lake for the season and see that the servants didn't fight and that the cows didn't eat up the garden we'd make them our debtors for life. They finally let us pay them a ridiculously small rental, and then we abandoned ourselves to dreams of one perfect Summer."

"We stored our furniture when the lease expired in May and rushed headlong to our doom. We thought it was a paradise on earth toward which we were flying, and maybe it would have been if the cook and the maid and the man of all sorts and the place hadn't decided that since their real family was gone this would be a nice time to run home to the old country for a visit. And they went, two days after we came. They looked us over in a cold and critical way and disapproved of us and departed."

"We got lots of exercise before we found help. Tom used to arise at 4 to weed the garden and I got up at the same time to feed the chickens, turn on the automatic pump, get breakfast and superintend Tom's milking."

"He was kicked through the barn door only twice and we considered that the record was pretty good for a greenhorn. He had some minor mishaps, like poking back all the beans when they came up, pushing the seeds ahead of them and training the potato vines up on strings instead of the peas, but troubles didn't really start till later."

"One day we were sitting in the flower garden having lunch and I told Doty, aged four, to go indoors for something. We watched her disappear into the house, and then Tom said: 'Could anything be more peaceful or inspiring than this perfect day?' And I responded in similar blank verse:

"Just then the neighbor whose cottage was on the lake shore came tearing around the corner of our house."

"She stared at us as though we annoyed her. 'Aren't you folks in bathing?' she inquired. 'Well, somebody is out in front, and I thought—'

"Tom and I did a foot race to the lake and he fished Doty out of the water unconscious and black in the face. That child had marched in at the back door of the house and as promptly marched out through the front door and proceeded to take a paddle by herself in the lake, inspired by some unaccountable juvenile impulse."

"Doty came out of her trance in two hours, but during that time I got ten gray hairs and Tom's nervous system was permanently shattered."

"It was a couple of weeks later that Doty and Tom, Jr., were taken seriously ill. The doctor murmured something about defective drains. There was a blur of trained nurses and horrors for a time and then the smoke of battle cleared away."

"Meanwhile the cows had eaten that part of the garden that had not dried up for lack of attention and the chickens were laying eggs all over the country. The Tunnills never did get them back."

"They'd send us post cards from Europe saying, 'We saw this today. Hope you are enjoying life at the dear old home.' This while I was burning fumigating candles. Or, 'We came down this river today. How you must be enjoying the garden green things.' That came the day the cows ate the last of the green corn we had expected to use ourselves."

"A little while later Tom dropped a flatiron on his foot and blood poisoning set in. Then the Tunnills sent a lovely card saying, 'We can just imagine you doing the five-mile walk through Elm lane and the woods. We envy you.'"

"The worst of all was that the family sent Tom's pretty and harum-scarum sister Nell to us that she'd forget the ineligible man she was trying to get engaged to. I produced all the young men at the hotel and several village lights to distract her, and so perfectly did I succeed that she eloped with a college boy who was running a launch."

"As the family was saving up a millionaire for Nell when she should have come to her senses they still feel hard toward me, and say I should have had more sense."

"When we came back to town in the fall all the good flats were taken and the moths had got into our rugs, and I had lost fifteen pounds and all my color, and Tom was a dyspeptic old grouch. It's taken all winter to get Dotty and Tom, Jr., civilized again, and on the whole we've concluded that the family will be better off if it denies itself the strain of a summer vacation. We're going to stick right here!"

"It does sound safer," admitted the caller.

CARROTS AND PEAS.—Small new carrots are scraped, halved, then cooked in enough slightly salted water to cover. When almost tender an equal measure of shelled peas is added and the slow cooking continued until both are done. Season well then the peas are half done and, if the gravy is preferred slightly thickened, add a teaspoonful of more of flour blended with a little cold water ten minutes before dish- ing. When in the serving dish sprinkle with a little finely chopped parsley.

WORLD'S GREAT BRIDGES.

Romans Were the First Great Builders of Stone Spans.

There is a great hope for the future development of bridges in that there seems to be a tendency among financiers more closely to consider the question of maintenance as related to original cost in large construction enterprises, and this will unquestionably induce them to build more largely of stone and brick than has been the case until this generation, says the Metropolitan Magazine.

In the construction of stone bridges the Romans were the first great builders. Bridge building was in fact one of the most interesting problems they had to solve. In architecture and construction they were indeed a most original and artistic people, too little appreciated and studied by modern Anglo-Saxons. They were the forerunners of our present construction. Until their time the Greeks had not reached that measure of perfection now so much considered, and theirs was the culmination of the slow artistic development through the ages. The Romans, however, had presented to them untried problems to be solved which called for new methods of construction, and of these the bridge or aqueduct was one of the most interesting. They were practically the first people to use the principle of the arch and vousoir construction.

The use of the arch principle, while sometimes attributed to the Chinese, was practically unknown to the ancients of the western civilization until the Roman conquest. It has been contended that the idea of the arch principle was first evolved by the Etruscans; if this is true, it is indeed coming near to Rome.

Such wonderful bridges as the one built by Caesar Augustus at Rimini or the Pont du Gard, the great aqueduct situated about twenty miles from Nimes built across the River Gard and attributed to Agrippa; the bridge of St. Augustus at Rome started by Adrian, and many others too numerous to mention have scarcely ever been surpassed. There seems to have been a period between this time and the twelfth century when few bridges of importance were built, and it was between the years 1178 and 1188 that the famous bridge at St. Benet at Avignon was built. Several other beautiful bridges soon followed, similar to it in construction. Then came the early Renaissance bridges, also too numerous to mention—the old Pont Neuf being, perhaps, the finest in Paris, the famous bridge attributed to Ammannati, the architect, in the sixteenth century at Florence, also the largest stone bridge ever built in the world, with a span of 183 feet, and a rise of 60 feet over the Allier at Vieille Breonne, France, or the bridge at Chester over the Dee, 40 feet high, with 200 feet span.

The Power of Attention.

The fact that the mind of man is easily distracted from any subject in contemplation accounts for the slowness of the development of most minds, and for the extreme slowness of the development of the human mind collectively. There are historical periods when general enlightenment seems to have advanced by leaps and bounds; but when one takes cognizance of the tens of thousands of years that man has been at play in the Kindergarten of Creation, one is aware of the very gradual and deliberate character of human progress as a whole; and this deliberateness of growth, and the remains of ignorance and superstition even in minds regarded as educated, come largely from the inability of men to keep their thoughts employed steadfastly on the various objects and problems of matter, mind and life. The faculty of attention is strikingly lacking in the savage man; it increases as civilization increases, and is a large factor in the advance of civilization and of culture.

When the power of attention is exceptional in the individual, he is set apart from his fellows; he is a genius in the business world, or perhaps a poet, artist, inventor, discoverer, philosopher, reformer, statesman or conqueror. When the power of attention in a community has been stimulated by one attentive mind or by a group of attentive minds, the world passes through periods of great mental activity; great reforms take place; there is great material or intellectual advance; or there are revivals in letters and in the plastic arts.

The supreme object of the teacher is to cultivate attention in his or her charges. When a child has learned how to pay attention, he has learned how to study and to learn. "Object lessons" are favorite devices for fixing attention. According to the orthodox theologians, religion has been taught to mankind largely through object lessons, in the form sometimes of "progressive revelations;" and the system of symbols in all religions may be called simply devices for fixing the wandering attention of souls, for their sustenance and lasting benefit.

We see, year in and year out, the coming and going of beliefs, customs; popular heroes or more popular pets; best sellers among books; sports, movements and fads of all kinds, which figure prominently only as long as they are able to claim the attention of large groups or of the entire community.

Eliminating Trading Stamps.

"No more trading stamps" is the slogan of a campaign which English grocers are carrying on. One of them, whose shop is in East London, says: "There is not a small grocer in England who earns 15 per cent. on his capital. Ten per cent. is average profit, and the cost of trading stamps leaves only about 6 1/2 per cent."

Uses of Anise.

Anise is a favorite flavoring for beverages in the Mediterranean countries. In Athens anise brandy is a popular drink, and is sold not only at cafes, but also by street vendors, who carry their glasses in a belt made especially therefor.

Not a Vast Improvement.

A Spanish laundry has a stationary tub in it, but this increases labor instead of lightening it, for unless rain has filled the tub, which is out of doors in the court yard, water has to be drawn from the well to fill it.

PROTECTION OF PLANTS.

Long-Leaved Palms Guard Themselves from Fire.

Young long-leaf pines, according to an official of the Bureau of Forestry, protect themselves against forest fires in a most interesting and curious manner.

For four or five years the stems of the infant trees attain a height of only a few inches above the soil. During this time their bark is extraordinarily thick, and that alone gives them some protection. But in addition, the long needles spring up above the stem, and then bend over on all sides in a green cascade which rains to the ground in a circle about the seedling. This green barrier can with difficulty be made to burn, while the shade that it casts prevents inflammable grass from growing near the protected stem.

The official quoted thinks that it is owing to this peculiar form of self-protection that the pine seedlings have developed that the growth of evergreen oaks in Florida has been restricted in regions where fires have raged while pure pine forests have taken their place.

Tourists' Postal Cards in Germany.

There is no city nor hamlet, no place of historical interest but has cards embellished with some design appropriate to the locality which offer convenient means of communication with friends at home. Last summer, according to post office returns, 20,808,313 cards were mailed in one week, 46 per cent. being tourists' cards. The postage collected daily on these cards averaged about $16,000. Berlin furnished the largest quota—137,000 cards.

New Chemical Degree.

A French Ministerial decree institutes the degree of "ingenieur-chimiste," to replace the old title of "chimiste" granted by the university. Thanks to funds voted by Parliament and the Paris Municipal Council, the Institute of Applied Chemistry will shortly be endowed with new and improved apparatus; and in the general chemical institute, transferred to the Rue d'Ulm, will be united all the chemical services and laboratories that are now too crowded at the Sorbonne.

The Shape of a Manhole.

Says The London Engineer: In a certain technical college, when the question, "Why are manholes made elliptical, and not circular?" was put to the class in examination, the majority answered by describing the shape of a man's head or body, or in some other manner going into the details of the human anatomy. The others answered that the reason for making them elliptical is that the covers may be placed on the inside, an operation which would be impossible with a circular manhole.

To Lessen Infant Mortality.

According to The London Engineer, among the suggestions placed before a Blackburn committee that is making inquiries with a view to lessening infant mortality in the town is a novel one by Dr. Bannister. He considers that much could be done to restore natural feeding by establishing a "cramble-room" or creche at each mill where mothers are employed, in which they could attend to the wants of their infants. He does not see why this should not be practicable from the employers' point of view.

Art in America.

Little by little our most precious works of art are going to America, where they obtain a most magnificent reception. Among the latest acquisitions of the great transatlantic collector, Mr. Pierpont Morgan, who has not only the means of buying everything, but the taste to choose well, are some admirable ivories of the middle ages, from the splendid collection of Baron Albert Oppenheim of Cologne.—Paris Figaro.

Trusts in Japan.

In addition to controlling the camphor, salt and tobacco interests and nationalizing the railways the Government of Japan, says the Anglo-Japanese Gazette of London and Tokio, has now attacked the question of trusts, and has mapped out a policy of State ownership as a means to acquire wealth.

English as Meat Eaters.

The English are becoming more and more meat eaters. The amount of meat imported increased from three pounds a head per annum in 1853 to fifty pounds in 1903. Evidently the vegetarians have a hard battle to fight.

How Brandy is Aged.

Ordinarily brandy, before being bottled, is aged by keeping for the requisite length of time in small oaken casks, from which it absorbs certain ethers and essential oils contained in the wood and necessary to its perfection.

Cock-Crowing as Sport.

Cock-crowing competitions are popular in Belgium. Such contests usually last about an hour, at the end of which time the owner of the bird which has executed the largest number of crows wins the prize.

China's Chamber of Commerce.

Most of the larger towns in Chekiang, China, are establishing chambers of commerce; these are semi-official bodies being under the supervision of the local bureau of agriculture, trade, industry and mines.

NOTICE

Petition to Improve Highway

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned Auditor of Putnam County, Indiana, that there has been filed in his office a petition by John H. Hillis et al., for the establishing and improving of a certain public highway in Monroe township, said county and that said petition is set for hearing before the Board of County Commissioners of said County, on Monday, the 4th day of September 1911, the same being the first day of the September Term, 1911, of said Board.

Which said petition is in the following words and figures, to-wit:

State of Indiana, County of Putnam, SS:— Commissioners' Court. Putnam County.

To the Hon. Board of Commissioners of Putnam County, Indiana:

The undersigned freeholders and voters of Monroe township, Putnam County, Indiana petition and ask the Hon. Board of Commissioners that the following described highway as now established situated in said township, County and State, to-wit:—Beginning about 182 feet north of the Southwest corner of the Northeast quarter (1-4) of Section Twenty-eight (28) Township Fifteen (15) North Range Four (4) West; thence South about 182 feet to said Southwest corner of said Northeast quarter of said Section 28; thence East with the highway as now established to the South west corner of the Northeast quarter (1-4) of Section Twenty-seven (27) Township Fifteen (15) North Range Four (4) West, be improved by grading, draining, bridging and macadamizing the same. Said highway is about one mile in length and connects at each end with an improved free macadamized road. Said petitioners recommend that the paving material to be used be crushed stone and that it be improved 33 feet in width, and that it be ordered improved without holding an election therefor.

Exporting Canaries.

Germany carries on a large trade in the export of canaries. Every year she sends no fewer than 130,000 of these birds to America, 3,000 to England and about 2,000 to Russia. The great nursery for the breeding of canaries is the Hartz mountains. Many of the peasants are engaged in the work of rearing the birds and receive wages of from $50 to $125 a year for their trouble—an important addition to their earnings. Many canaries come also from the Black Forest, but they do not fetch such high prices as the Hartz birds, not being considered such good songsters.

Two Million Negro Baptists.

There are more than 2,000,000 negro Baptists in this country, with fifty institutions of learning and forty-five denominational papers. They have a national organization, with boards for missions, home and foreign, education, publication and the young people's societies.

A Proof of Growth.

Leading Japanese merchants and capitalists have established a marine insurance company with a cash capital of $2,500,000, to be increased to $5,000,000. This is to take advantage of the increase of Japanese merchant tonnage from 160,000 to 1,000,000 since the war.

An Unusual Bass Viol.

A wonderfully large double-bass viola has been made and is intended for use in a Chicago orchestra. It is fourteen feet high and its body about seven feet. The top part of the body is three feet four inches across, the lower part five feet.

Elephants as Nurses.

Elephants often take the place of nurses in Asia. The children are lifted on the elephant's back with his trunk, he then goes a short distance from the village, places them on the ground and guards them.

Berlin's Suburbs.

If Berlin annexed all its suburbs, after the fashion of Paris, it would be the second city in size in Europe.

FRENCH SAVINGS BANK.

How the Poorer Classes Are Able to Lead Money.

France in her system of finance and in her whole scheme of economy aids and encourages saving among the people.

The Government conducts a vast banking institution whereby every post office has its saving bank department—its caisse d'épargne. Here, says Harper's Bazar, any one may make a deposit as low as one franc (20 cents), which deposit is recorded in one's livret de la caisse d'épargne (savings bank book). A convenient feature of this system tending to make saving easy is that one make his deposits in any post office anywhere in France, and may withdraw any part or all his savings at any post office, without regard to where the deposits have been made.

I have never had a servant in France who had not her livret de la caisse d'épargne, and yet, the girl or woman, if she had no family of her own to support, almost invariably contributed to the support of her father's family. I have had one middle-aged femme de chambre on whose face each day I could read pretty well how the Bourse was going.

Pays to the Head of State.

In the Figaro a statistician undertakes to answer the question as to how much a citizen has to pay for the head of his State. The Frenchman pays for his President annually the low sum of 9 centimes (not quite 2 cents). Considerably higher the amount which every German has to pay for his Emperor, namely, 34 centimes annually. In Russia each subject's annual contribution is 35, in Italy 44 and in Austria-Hungary 45 centimes. The dearest rulers are, however, those of Greece and Belgium, for every Belgian or Greek contributes 50 centimes annually to the maintenance of the royal house in his country.

Deadly Salt.

Winter snowstorms are likely to at least settle one vexed question, says The London Globe. So far as Paris, is concerned, it will probably be decided once for all whether sowing the streets with salt is a permissible method of getting rid of snow. The authorities of the hospital are unanimous that it is instrumental in causing hundreds of deaths from pneumonia and other causes, and in planting the seeds of disease in hundreds of other people, while the veterinarians surgeons say that thousands of horses have been ruined by being kept for days in slush 18 centigrade below zero.

An Explosive Bean.

A peculiar vegetable product of Java is a bean-like pod containing the seeds of the plant on which it grows. The seeds are disturbed by the violent explosion of the pod when ripe. Dried pods, brought to the United States recently, exploded with a loud noise when thrown upon water. The cause of the explosion appears to be that as the pod ripens a strong internal pressure is brought to bear on the shell, though if plucked before they are quite mature the pods withstand the pressure until a sudden wetting weakens the tissues along the groove joining the two halves of the shell.

Attacks Like Tigers.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Cal., "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them, 50c at the Owl Drug store.

Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guesswork in this evidence of Thos. Arles, Concord, Mich., who writes, "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and its the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for laryngitis, asthma, hay-fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by the Owl Drug store.

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce, who has received the advice of a physician of over 50 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is returned as promptly and confidentially as possible. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trade with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.,—take the advice received and be well.

Made in White and Twenty Artistic and Beautiful Tints and Colors. Simply mix with cold water. Follow directions.

Miss Nadine Van Hise, who, over a month ago, was caught on the Bel river bridge with a party of picnicers and struck by a traction car, is improving steadily. It will be recalled that at the time it was feared that in case she recovered, the injured leg would always be stiff, rendering her a cripple for life. However, her recovery has been most excellent, and a few days ago the attending physician administered chloroform and bent the injured leg. It was found that it yielded to the treatment and that the knee cap could be moved about. The physicians now hope to save the complete use of the leg. The other injuries are healing nicely.

Obituary.

As the midnight hour came clicking on Sunday night, July 23, the life of one dear one went to its great reward. This time being one of our faithful citizens, Joseph Stokes, Mr. Stokes was born in Bath county Kentucky, Dec. 7, 1824 and died near Lena, Ind., July 23, 1911.

age 86 years, 7 months and 16 days.

Uncle Joe, as he was generally called, was sick almost a year and at times it seemed as if he could not last long, but he bore his sickness with all patience.

He suffered a paralytic stroke in May and for a time it seemed as if he was not going to live through it, but he rallied and lived until the time mentioned above; while his last sickness was only five days after he took bad he realized his condition and told his family that he was going to die and for them to send for all the children that they might be together and talk, but he was never able to talk to them after they gathered around his bed side hoping to do something to make his suffering easy. Once when he seemed to be suffering so much pain he raised his hand upward and tried to tell them of the glory land where he was going to meet his dear companion and three children that have gone before.

He leaves to mourn his loss a good and faithful father, three sons and five daughters: James and Charles Stokes of Denver, Colo., and Newt Stokes now at home; Mrs. Laura Proffitt of Lebanon, Mrs. Alice Crist of Indianapolis, Mrs. Sarah Harmless of near Lena, and Mrs. Estella Thomas who still lives at the home place and Nella Turner, a granddaughter he raised. Uncle Joe was married on Feb. 6, 1850 to Nancy Grimes and proved to be a faithful husband during their married life. When a young man he united with the Methodist church and lived a Christian life. Rev. Rohl conducted the funeral services at the M. E. church at Lena and the remains were laid to rest in the Calcutta cemetery. The casket was carried by his five grandsons and a neighbor boy, Jessie and Victor Harmless, Earl and Jasper Turner, Curtis Earl and Paul Thomas.

Pond Lily Cake

Whites four eggs beaten stiff, one cup butter, one and one-half cups sugar, one and one-half pints of flour sifted, one cup sweet milk, one and one-half teaspoonsful baking powder, one teaspoonful lemon extract. Mix as follows: Cream the butter and sugar and add the beaten whites, the yolks being reserved for the icing. Add the milk, flour, baking powder, and extract. Beat well and bake in layers.

Icing—The yolks of the four eggs that were left from the whites. Beat the four egg yolks stiff and add one cupful of powdered sugar, one teaspoonful of lemon extract. Beat all well and ice the cake.

Salem Muffins

One and one-half cupsful of flour, one-half cupful of cornmeal, one teaspoonful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of salt, one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder, one level tablespoonful of butter, two eggs, one cupful of milk, half a teaspoonful of cinnamon. Sift together flour, cornmeal, salt, sugar, and baking powder; rub it in the butter, add the eggs well beaten, milk and cinnamon. Have the griddle heated, grease it, lay it on the muffin rings, also greased, and half fill them with the batter. As soon as risen to the top of rings turn them over gently with cake turner; bake a nice brown on both sides.

Leopard Cake

Light part: One and a half cups of white sugar, half cup of butter, half cup of sweet milk, two and a half cups of flour, whites of four eggs, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, lemon flavoring.

Dark part: One cup of brown sugar, half cup of molasses, half cup of butter, half cup of sweet milk, yolks of four eggs, two and a half cups of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Flavor with spices. Mix the two batters very lightly together as for a marble cake.

Cannon Crackers

Make a jelly roll, and after rolling carefully and when thoroughly cool put in at one end a piece of rather heavy twine, leaving about six inches exposed, and then around the outside of the same end wind a piece of white paper two inches wide, overlapping the ends a trifle, next roll the whole thing several times in white and then red tissue paper, finishing neatly on the under side. The result will be a delectable can non cracker.

Caramel Ice Cream

Place two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch in a saucepan and add one quart of rich milk and let same come to a boil, stirring all the time. Then place in a double boiler and add one-half cupful of sugar which has been burned. Next beat two eggs with one cupful of sugar and add to the milk mixture. When it begins to thicken, remove from the stove and cool. Add one pint of rich cream and one teaspoonful of vanilla and freeze.

Buy it now. Now is the time to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the summer is over. This remedy has no superior. For sale by all dealers.

UNLAWFUL TO SHOOT BLACK BIRDS.

Many people have been shooting blackbirds under the impression that it is lawful to do so. Some complaint of the practice has been made to the prosecutor who points out that the shooting of birds is unlawful. Section 2522 Revised Statutes of 1908 reads:

Whoever kills, traps or has in his possession any wild bird or who ever sells or offers the same for sale, or whoever destroys the nest or eggs of any wild bird, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and conviction thereof shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars; Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to the following named game birds. The anatidae, commonly called swans, geese, brant, river or sea ducks; the rallidae, commonly called rails, mudhens and gallinules; the linidae, commonly called shore birds, surf birds, plover, snipe, woodcock, sandpipers, curlew, and tattlers; the galinae, commonly called wild turkeys, grouse, prairie chicken, quail and pheasants; nor to English or European house sparrows; crows, hawks or other birds of prey. Nor shall this section apply to persons taking birds, their nests or eggs, for scientific purposes, under permit, as provided in the next section.

Still another Section No. 2666 reads: "Whoever runs horses, geldings or shoots at a mark within the limits of any city, town or village, or along or across any street thereof, shall on conviction, be fined not more than three dollars."

BREAK IS COSTLY FOR MONON.

The break in daylight traffic ties, so far as Chicago business is concerned, between the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton and the Monon, which is scheduled to take place on Sunday, August 27, will cost the two roads about $40,000 per annum on mail contracts between this city and Chicago. The Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton mail income from the two trains that will be affected by the break in relations aggregates about $16,000, while the Monon, which has the longer haul, will lose about $24,000.

As soon as the break becomes effective the government will naturally divert Chicago-Cincinnati mail over other roads and it is thought by railroads that the Big Four will be the beneficiary, as it has been after this business for years, and has made overtures for it on many occasions.

ANNUAL WOODS FAMILY REUNION.

The Annual Reunion of the Wood family was held Tuesday, August 8 at the farm of N. P. Wood, near Morton. There were about 300 present and a most enjoyable day was spent by all those present. At noon, as is the custom, a bountiful dinner was served.

At the election of officers the following officers were elected:

President—Charles Wood, Secretary—N. P. Wood,

Treasurer—Martha Houck.

It was decided to hold the next reunion on Aug. 8 of next year at the Leslie Frank farm, near Clinton Falls.

REFUSES TO ELOPE; IS SHOT.

Brazil Woman Fatally Wounded—Mob Threatens Assault.

BRAZIL, Ind., Aug. 11.—Fear of a demonstration against Salim Albert, who yesterday shot and fatally wounded Mrs. Toney George, prompted the authorities tonight to move Albert from the hospital to jail, where he is being closely guarded. A crowd of countrymen of George and Albert collected at the hospital, where Mrs. George and Albert were taken following the shooting.

Albert shot the woman because she refused to elope with him. He then turned the revolver on himself and inflicted what is said to be a fatal wound. When told in the hospital that the woman was not dead he sought to break away from his attendants, declaring he would "finish the job." When this became known there was an angry mob hurrying Albert to jail.
